CONNOISSEURS' GUIDE TO CALIFORNIA WINE APRIL 2010

2007

NAPA VALLEY
CABERNET SAUVIGNON

89 POINTS

"This wine's mildly chocolaty, faintly coffee-like overlay and its undisguised message of ripeness may in fact offend those who for some reason think ripeness a sin, but the rest of us will find plenty to like its generous black cherry fruit and its fleshy, supple palatefeel. While it is solidly structured with enough tannin to keep well for four to six years, it is not at all tough or abrasive, and it will likely come into good drinking condition for juicy beef roasts in half that time."
